over the past few months, i have noticed several issues with pampers that leads me to believe there is a quality control problem.